Introduction

Cinnamara College was established on 1st June in 1991 at the centre of three mouzas –Katoni, Garamur and Charaibahi covers a large part of Southern Jorhat District of Assam. Previously, this vast area was economically backward, but historically, culturally, socially and particularly in the field of literature was far advanced in the pre and post independence period. But turning the last four decades of 20th century, the pursuit of knowledge and the literary activities began to dwindle. Cinnamara College, which is a centre of higher education, the college has laid emphasis on social science research for which Mohan Chandra Mahanta Adhyayan Gobesona Kendra, a social science research centre has been already set up in 2nd October, 2010. The college has laid emphasis on imparting quality education; simultaneously it has also tried its level best to create a strong root of literary activities in the vast area of historic South Jorhat. The college has published a good number of books since its inception. Gradually, our College develop its as Cinnamara College Sakha Sahitya Sabha & Publication which was formally established in 2009. In fact, our academic and literary programme is designed to embrace the diversity, to encourage individuality and to support students attempting high risk education. So our green, a little Santiniketon like campus is international cross roads, where renowned Educationists, Scientists, Social Scientists and Social Workers come to speak and share new ideas with us. And our College publication located in the historic region of Jorhat District offers unlimited variety for intellectual, cultural and culinary stimulation. It is worth mentioning here that dynamism, unending urge for innovation and an infinite curiosity to explore the new horizons of knowledge are the cardinal motivating forces for our College publication. In the light of this perspective, the sole credit must go to the founder Principal of our College and Chief Adviser Professor Ananda Saikia and he is now our guiding spirit in every sphere of our publication.
